Description

Description: A magnificent and complete four-piece antique dressing table set, representing the finest craftsmanship of the renowned Birmingham firm, Levi & Salaman. Created at the turn of the 20th century, this set is a perfect example of the elegant Art Nouveau style. The set comprises two exquisite jars crafted from high-quality cut crystal, accompanied by two matching manicure tools—a nail file and a cuticle pusher. All four gold components are masterfully wrought from solid 9-carat rose gold, featuring an intricate repoussé floral and scrollwork design characteristic of the era. About the Maker: Levi & Salaman was founded in Birmingham in 1870 by Phineas Harris Levi and Joseph Wolff Salaman. As one of England's most famous silversmiths and jewellers at the turn of the 19th and 20th centuries, they were celebrated for their superior quality and design. Provenance and Hallmarks: To find a complete set where all pieces were made by the same prestigious manufacturer in the same year is a mark of true rarity. Each gold item is clearly and fully hallmarked, guaranteeing its authenticity: Maker's Mark: L&S for Levi & Salaman. Standard Mark: .375, for 9-carat solid gold...
