Description

A fine Victorian commode, dating from around 1860 and made in England. Crafted in mahogany, the piece is designed as a chest with faux drawers, cleverly concealing its original purpose. The commode displays a rich patina, developed over more than 160 years, giving warmth and depth to the wood. Turned feet and traditional drawer fronts add further period character, while the hinged top reveals the fitted interior. Approximate measurements: height 74 cm, width 66 cm, depth 51 cm. The commode is offered in good antique condition. Signs of age, including surface marks, scratches and minor cracks, are present, consistent with long use and adding to its authentic antique appeal. A genuine Victorian piece, full of charm and ready to place in a traditional or vintage-inspired interior.
