Description

A charming Edwardian occasional table, crafted in England from fine mahogany around 1905–1910. This elegant two-tier piece reflects the influence of the Chippendale style, with its refined cabriole legs, carved details, and shaped lower tier. The warm polished patina highlights the rich mahogany grain, making it a versatile and attractive addition to both traditional and eclectic interiors. Perfect as a side table, lamp table, or occasional coffee table. This is a quality antique full of age, charm, and character. In very good antique condition, with minor wear consistent with age and use, adding to its authenticity. A beautiful example not to be missed!
