Description

A fine antique mahogany hall chair dating from the 19th century. This striking piece features a richly carved backrest with a central medallion and floral motif, surmounted by an arched pediment with finial and scrollwork. The shaped apron and boldly carved square legs add further character and presence. With its solid mahogany construction and decorative design, this chair is both functional and highly decorative – perfect for a hallway, entrance, or as an accent piece in any traditional interior. In good antique condition. Solid and sturdy, with expected age-related wear and surface marks consistent with use. Presents beautifully with a rich patina. Seat Height – 43 cm A distinctive carved mahogany hall chair – full of period charm.
