Description

A fine Victorian rosewood work table featuring a rectangular figured top above a single frieze drawer and fitted workbox. The interior is lined in deep red fabric, offering both practicality and charm. Raised on turned supports with a stretchered base and elegant splayed feet, this piece combines function with classic Victorian craftsmanship. Good antique condition, with an attractive patina to the rosewood. Some age-related wear consistent with use, adding character without detracting from its overall appeal. The workbox fabric remains intact and clean. This versatile table would make an excellent addition to a period interior, whether used as a sewing table, side table, or simply as a decorative antique piece.
