Description

A charming early 20th century English oak drop leaf table with classic gateleg action. The oval top rests on beautifully turned barley twist legs joined by stretchers, offering both strength and decorative appeal. Compact when folded, it easily extends to provide a practical dining or occasional table. Width (extended): 90 cm. Good antique condition with a warm patina to the oak. Minor signs of age and use consistent with its history, adding to its character. The mechanism works smoothly and the table is sturdy when extended. This versatile piece is ideal as a small dining table, occasional table, or decorative addition to a traditional interior.

Internal Ref: A195
