Description

A fine quality early Lenzkirch Vienna Regulator wall clock, circa 1861. The well proportioned case of excellent original colour and patination. The beautifully figured burr walnut and ebonised case inlaid throughout with boxwood stringing, surmounted with a decorative pediment and ebonised finials, with matching finials to the inlaid shaped base. The locking glazed door with the original lock and key, flanked by canted and shaped burr walnut mouldings inlaid with boxwood stringing. The original high quality two piece enamelled dial with Roman numerals, the inner and outer dial surrounded by polished brass bezels with knurled decoration, numbered to the reverse 69482. The fully restored high quality eight day timepiece movement with deadbeat escapement and maintaining power. The A-frame plates united by four turned pillars, with knurled thumb screws securing the movement to the mounting bracket in the case. The early unsigned movement numbered 69482, of typical Lenzkirch design and fine quality manufacture. The polished brass cased weight, with spoked pulleys, polished brass bob pendulum with spun decoration and ebonised wooden rod. Finely fretted blued steel hands of ...
