Description

Fine Victorian Sheffield Silver-Plated Salver beautifully engraved in the Rococo style and raised on three ornate scroll feet. This piece combines restrained elegance with the rich ornamentation characteristic of the late 18th / early 19th century. To the centre sits a finely executed crest, depicting a pair of angel wings around a sword, likely representing the arms of a distinguished family. The back of the salver is stamped with the phoenix symbol for John Watrehouse and E. Hatfield & Co (Sheffield, 203 Portobello Street). Measurements: Height: 1 1/8" (approx. 3cm) Diameter: 8" (approx. 20cm) Total weight: 420g In good condition – Excellent antique condition with border and feet showing only the expected light wear consistent with age. No dents, splits, or repairs and engraving remains crisp and clear.
