Description

A fascinating and well-preserved Singer 15K80 sewing machine, featuring a central bobbin mechanism and decorated in classic black with gold detail. The machine bears serial number EB531532 and is likely dated to the 1920s–1930s period. It is fully mechanical (hand-crank / treadle compatible), with original parts, and retains strong cosmetic condition, including its decorative goldwork and structural integrity. A beautiful piece of sewing history, ready for restoration or display in any vintage or collector's setting.
