Description

The Stick is particularly notable for its Jewish ceremonial motifs. The top features a secret compartment with a prominent Star of David surrounded by a wreath. The main body features an oval cartouche enclosing a representation of the Menorah (the seven-branched Temple Menorah, though a nine-branched Hanukkah menorah, or hanukkiah, is also a common motif in Jewish ritual silver or Judaica). The handle is an Imperial Russian silver walking stick handle made of .875 fineness silver (84 Zolotniki) in 1896, assayed under Osip Sosnkovsky in Warsaw. Osip Sosnkovsky (Assayer) The mark ?? with a date indicate that ?? is a known assayer's mark. the Cyrillic initials ?? are well-documented to represent Osip Sosnkovsky, who served as an assayer in Warsaw for a period that includes 1896. In summary, the sword stick is a beautiful and historically significant piece of Imperial Russian Judaica: a silver walking stick handle, made of .875 silver, decorated with a Star of David and Menorah, and hallmarked in Warsaw in 1886. Object Type: It is a sword stick (or cane-sword), which is a cane or walking stick that conceals a hidden blade. Sword sticks became popular among the wealthy ...
