Description

This is a very smart totally original, adjustable Art Deco desk lamp. The chrome has a lovely aged patina to it and this still retains the original frosted glass shade. The lamp is adjustable. It starts compact and then you can pull up the extending arm which once it hits a point you can then adjust the light up and down. This original mechanism still works well. The overall condition is good with a few small dents to the base but nothing that takes away from this piece which is a rare survivor.
