Description

An extremely rare Antique Shanks & Co Marble Washstand. An exceptional example of Edwardian bathroom design, this authentic Shanks & Co marble washstand combines functionality with enduring elegance. Crafted in their factory in Barrhead, Scotland, it features striking veined marble with a lipped surround to contain water spills and a tall splashback fitted with its original glass shelf. The piece is supported by smart, tapered chrome legs to the front and retains its original chrome taps and grillAn , a testament to its quality. Height given does not include the splashback. Founded by the enterprising Scottish plumber John Shanks, the company grew from a modest operation in the 1850s into a major sanitaryware manufacturer. Shanks' dedication to innovation and craftsmanship helped revolutionize indoor plumbing in Britain. Eventually, the firm merged with Armitage to become Armitage Shanks, a name still synonymous with quality bathroom fixtures today. A rare survivor in very good condition considering its age, this washstand is both a practical feature and a piece of design history.
