Description

An elegant Edwardian slipper chair, dating from around 1905, crafted from solid oak and newly upholstered in a striking red and cream striped fabric. The chair features a beautifully carved crest rail with floral and ribbon details, and stands on turned front legs with original brass castors. Designed with a comfortable low seat and a gently reclined backrest, this chair combines period charm with functionality — perfect for a bedroom, dressing room, or reading corner. Seat height: 35 cm Very Good antique condition. Recently reupholstered; frame solid and stable, with minor age-related marks consistent with use.
