Description

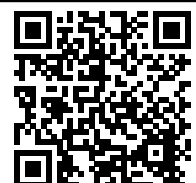

A wonderful antique Edwardian leather armchair, made in England and dating from around 1890-1910. It is of outstanding quality and is a useful petite size. It is very comfortable and is beautifully designed, with gorgeous deep buttoned leather upholstery. It stands on tapered solid oak legs with brass casters on the front legs. This had been fully re-upholstered by the previous owner, with the original horse hair stuffing being retained. We have had the leather revived and enhanced by our leather restorer, the legs have also been re-polished. The condition is superb, with a lovely overall patina.
