Description

An Attractive And Very Good Quality Mid 18th Century Walnut Chest, Retaining Good Colour Throughout, With Unusual Bold Wavy Moulded Edge To Top Over Four Long Drawers With Replacement Pierced Plate Brass Handles, Raised On Elegant Shaped Bracket Feet. This extremely functional chest is a little quirky and that in itself adds a real charm to the piece. The wavy moulded edge almost has an anglo indian. or portugese feel to it from a stylistical perspective, although the rest of it is very much typically english 18th century. It retains a good, warm colour throughout and although the handles are relatively modern replacements, they are very much in the style of the period this chest was made and look lovely on it. The shaped bracket feet appear to be a slightly different grain of timber to the rest of the chest and this leads us to believe they are also old replacements, but when viewing from underneath they look absolutely like they could be original. Maybe the cabinet maker just different have enough of the same type of wood left! A good size, with fully operational drawers, locks and keys this is absolutely perfect for just about any modern day living purpose one can t...
