Description

One of the best. A mid 19th century Turkish runner with superlative colour, radiating from the naturally dyed wool. The thick pile all over really helps the colours glow and the condition is really something to behold in such an old rug. Virtually untouched, with only light corrosion to the black and a small chip at one end that is in the queue for restoration in my workshop. Feast your eyes on this rare piece, such a thing comes to market very infrequently. From a private US collection, and a dear old friend. 3'7" x 14'2"
