Description

A Lovely Pair of 19th Century Classical Pine Columns A charming pair of 19th-century pine columns in the Classical style. Each features beautifully carved capitals adorned with elegant swags of laurel leaves and scrolling details, evoking the refined grace of ancient Greek and Roman Corinthian design. The shafts are fluted to the upper sections and reeded to the lower, offering subtle textural contrast and craftsmanship. They stand proudly on square plinth bases with attractive circular stepped detailing. Displaying a wonderful warm colour and rich aged patina, these columns have great decorative presence. Perfect as statement pieces, they would make ideal display stands or architectural accents in a range of interior settings. The tops measure roughly 18cm square.
