Description

This elegant Edwardian umbrella stand is crafted from solid oak, featuring a beautifully grained surface with a rich, warm patina. The upper section is adorned with carved details and gilt brass mounts, including a central wreath motif and decorative rosettes that enhance its refined aesthetic. A sturdy brass rail extends across the front, supported by ornate brackets, offering ample space for umbrellas and walking sticks. The base includes a removable drip tray divided into three sections for practicality and easy maintenance. A standout feature of this piece is the decorative ceramic tile panel along the lower front, showcasing a hand-painted neoclassical urn flanked by vibrant yellow lilies and scrolling foliage. Combining functionality and charm, this umbrella stand is a fine example of Edwardian craftsmanship and design, perfect for a traditional hallway or entrance.
