Description

The Breitling Top Time Ref. 2006, dating from circa 1967, represents the bold design shift that defined the late 1960s. This rare reference features a distinctive 37mm square stainless steel case, giving it a geometric and avant-garde wrist presence that set it apart from the round chronographs of its era. Freshly serviced and running within ± 6 seconds per day, it performs beautifully for a watch of its age. The dial features a striking silver sunburst finish with contrasting black subdials, forming a timeless "reverse panda" layout inspired by the high-energy world of motorsport timing instruments. This design perfectly captures the daring and experimental aesthetic of the era, balancing functionality with distinctive mid-century style. At its heart lies a hand-wound chronograph movement, emblematic of Breitling's precision craftsmanship before the advent of automatic chronographs.
