Description

An exquisite pair of vintage earrings by the celebrated British jeweller Andrew Grima, dating from the 1960s. Superbly handcrafted in 18ct yellow gold, these exceptional earrings feature softly glowing rose quartz cabochons, each cut with a distinctive honeycomb texture that reflects light beautifully. The stones are set within collet-style galbé brushed gold frames, epitomising Grima's signature sculptural style — organic, bold, and effortlessly elegant. Designed for pierced ears with both post and clip fittings, they offer security and comfort while sitting beautifully on the ear. Signed GRIMA and hallmarked 750 for 18ct gold, these substantial earrings are presented in their original Grima box, making them a highly desirable collector's piece.
