Description

An impressive antique throne chair, dating from the early 1900s, crafted from solid oak with beautifully turned barley twist legs and cross stretchers. The backrest and seat are upholstered in embossed leather featuring a striking floral and scroll motif, accented with large decorative brass studs. This statement chair combines craftsmanship, grandeur, and a Gothic-inspired silhouette — perfect as a feature piece in a hallway, office, or period interior. Seat height: 47 cm. Very good antique condition, solid and sturdy with visible age-related marks, minor wear to the leather, and some surface cracks consistent with age. Overall, it presents beautifully with strong structure and authentic patina.
