Description

An attractive Georgian mahogany bow front corner cupboard, circa 1800, showcasing elegant proportions and fine craftsmanship typical of the period. The piece features double panelled doors with the original brass escutcheons and a working lock with key, complemented by its hand-forged iron latch on the interior. The gently curved front and warm patina highlight the natural beauty of the mahogany grain. Inside, there are three fixed shelves, offering practical display or storage space — ideal for a dining room, hallway, or period kitchen. Very good antique condition with minor surface marks consistent with age. Doors open and close smoothly, structure solid and stable.
