Description

An early Victorian walnut credenza, circa 1860. This finely crafted piece features a central panelled door framed by curved glazed display sections, each lined with velvet and fitted with shaped shelves. The walnut veneers are bookmatched and enriched with marquetry and boxwood stringing, while ebony details and ormolu mounts highlight the refined neoclassical influence. Complete with two working keys, this elegant credenza exemplifies the quality and decorative artistry of mid-19th-century English cabinetry.
