Description

A superb quality William IV rosewood partners writing table, circa 1830. The table features a new hand-dyed green leather writing surface with gilt tooling, beautifully framed by richly figured rosewood. Supported on bold, oversized cabriole legs with exquisite hand-carved scroll details and striking paw feet, all set on casters for ease of movement. Each side of the table is fitted with a single frieze drawer, allowing two people to work comfortably together. The craftsmanship, proportion, and choice of timber are exceptional—an excellent example of early 19th-century English design. Excellent showroom condition, with a fine polished finish. A magnificent and practical statement piece—perfect for a study, library, or elegant office. W 162cm (64") D 97cm (38") H 79cm (31") Floor to underside of table H 63.5cm (25")
