Description

A beautiful Edwardian two-tier occasional table, dating from around 1910, crafted from solid mahogany with a gracefully shaped top and elegant cabriole legs. The design features a lower shelf with matching serpentine edges, perfect for display or storage, and a delicate curved apron that highlights the period's refined craftsmanship. This elegant piece would make a lovely side table, lamp table, or hall accent, ideal for traditional and vintage interiors. Very good antique condition. Structurally sound with a warm polished patina and light surface marks consistent with age.
