Description

A charming Victorian oval window or occasional table, dating from around 1890, crafted from rich solid mahogany with beautiful hand-carved foliate and shell detailing around the top edge. The table stands on elegant cabriole legs united by a shaped lower tier, typical of late 19th-century design, blending elegance and craftsmanship. This piece would make a refined addition to any living room, hallway, or reading corner, perfect as a lamp table, occasional table, or window display piece. Very good antique condition — sturdy, clean surface with gentle age-related wear that enhances its authentic patina.
