Description

A fine pair of William IV dining chairs, crafted from solid mahogany and dating from circa 1835. Each chair features a beautifully shaped bar back with a central carved scroll motif and elegant reeded front legs. The chairs have been reupholstered in a classic blue floral fabric, offering a tasteful contrast to the warm tone of the wood. These chairs combine early Victorian strength with late Regency grace — ideal for a period dining room, hall, or bedroom accent. Seat height: 47 cm Very good antique condition — solid frames, clean upholstery, minor wear consistent with age and use.
