Description

A pair of very decorative Ridgway sauce tureens with covers and matching ladles c. 1830. They are relief moulded with flowers against a green ground beneath chocolate brown rims. The knobs and handles are in the form of orange glazed roses. There are two ladles, one with strainer and one without. They are very striking. From a Private Collection. There is some loss of paint to the chocolate brown rims and some age related wear generally. They measure 19.5cm length x 16.5cm high.
