Description

A handsome antique Victorian mahogany side / display cabinet distinguished by its fine inlay and elegant proportions. The well-figured top with moulded edge is crossbanded and finished with satinwood stringing echoing the line-inlaid frieze below. Twin panelled cupboard doors are framed with contrasting boxwood/satinwood stringing and inlaid corner spandrels opening to a practical storage interior. Slender inlaid pilasters flank the doors, and the whole stands on a tidy plinth base, the enriched inlay providing a refined contrast to the warm mahogany. A versatile and decorative piece that carries the restrained luxury of mid-Victorian cabinetmaking—ideal as a hall console, dining side cabinet, or living-room storage. Condition: Excellent antique condition with a rich, even colour; inlay crisp and well preserved. Dimensions: Height: 107.5 cm (42.3 in) Width: 97 cm (38.1 in) Depth: 47.5 cm (18.7 in) Circa: 1860 Origin: England Materials: Mahogany with satinwood/boxwood inlay
