Description

An Exceptionally Good Quality Early 19th Century Regency Period Rosewood Set Of 10 Dining Chairs, Or Side Chairs, Having Superbly Figured Shaped Top Rails With Superb Richly Carved Foliate Decoration, Over Bold Removable Stuffer Seat Pads Featuring Attractive Floral Needlepoint Decoration, Raised On Elegant Turned Tapering Legs, Headed By Attractive Tulip Carved Decoration. This beautiful set of dining chairs were clearly made in one of the top London cabinet making workshops of the early 19th century, boasting wonderfully rich rosewood timbers and a depth of carving rarely found. They are also remarkably sturdy and fit for purpose, which often isn't the case of course for sets of regency dining chairs, many of which can have a tendency to be a little small. These chairs are anything but that, boasting impressive comfortable seats which any person of any size can sit on and be happy. Its unusual to find sets of 10 or more chairs which are still in good condition and haven't had modern additional chairs built into the set when others in the set become damaged over the years, so thats another big tick in the box of these lovely chairs. Overall the condition is very go...
