Description

This is an antique Canterbury. An English, rosewood three division magazine rack, dating to the William IV period, circa 1835. A visually striking example of fine craftsmanship, displaying excellent proportion and decorative finesse. Superb, large country house example with a wonderful appearance. Select stocks present fine grain interest with rich caramel and russet hues. Beautifully crafted scroll and foliate fretwork adorns the divisions, united by elegant turned rails. Three divisions offer practical storage for magazines, papers or folios. Usefully sized drawer to the fascia, dressed with a pair of circular rosewood pulls. Drawer boxes crafted from quality mahogany, demonstrating fine cabinetmaking skill. Standing upon short turned legs, riding smoothly upon original brass castors. Displays a gently time-worn patina, enhancing its distinguished character. This is a superb antique Canterbury, boasting refined William IV craftsmanship and timeless appeal. Ideal for the discerning collector or elegant sitting room. Solid joints and construction, delivered ready for the home.
