Description

We are delighted to offer this stunning antique Victorian 15ct gold diamond and pearl brooch made c.1890. Featuring a stunning regal design of a crown/coronet with intricate goldwork, this brooch possesses such a charming aura fit for a princess. The gold is of a beautiful antique buttery/champagne gold with a rich, warm hue. The brooch is embellished with multiple half-pearls at each point and a single sparkling diamond on the cross to accentuate its overall look. What is particularly lovely and a testament to its quality and craftsmanship is the cross that has been carefully positioned at a slight angle and left with a mirror-shine finish. The cross dazzles and reflects light beautifully in natural lighting and upon wearing outdoors, it truly comes to life. Owing to its understated size and classical colours, the brooch complements a wide variety of outfits and styles. Whether to accentuate your style or to wear as a single highlighting piece on a shirt, blouse or jacket lapel, the brooch immediately elevates the splendour of an outfit without being too ostentatious. Diamond is known to be the birthstone for April and pearls for June. A very special and sweet gift...
