Price

SoldItem Reference: SA1177696*Date of manufacture: 1900

Description

A superb four panel folding screen - room divider in excellent condition from the Queen Ann Revival period (circa 1890 and 1914). Each panel features geometrical octagonally shaped moulded frames and a thick bevelled glass. This screen has the original gilt brass fittings/hinges and is identical on both sides. Glass all intact with just one side strip, on the side of one of the glass panels, missing (see image). A very solid and stable screen which would fit seamlessly into traditional and modern interiors. 182cm high. Each door is approximately 60cm wide.
