Description

A charming 19th-century Victorian console table featuring a beautifully shaped white marble top with an integrated curved backsplash, offering both elegance and practicality. The onyx-like marble surface is in very good condition, showcasing subtle natural veining and a soft, aged sheen. The wooden base is crafted from solid timber with wonderfully turned legs and a stretcher base, giving the piece excellent stability. The wood displays age-related wear, adding depth and character consistent with its period. These gentle signs of use complement the antique charm and authenticity of the table. This versatile piece works beautifully as a hallway console, side table, washstand, or decorative accent in any traditional or eclectic interior. Marble top in very good condition. Wooden base with visible wear appropriate for age, enhancing its antique character. Solid and stable.
