Description

A charming Edwardian cluster ring featuring a stunning natural cornflower sapphire surrounded by a halo of sparkling old-cut diamonds, forming a floral “daisy” design. The ring is crafted in 18ct yellow gold with a platinum-topped setting and bears an “18ct” mark inside the band. The central sapphire is a vivid blue round-cut gem of approx. 0.26 carats, surrounded by approximately 0.25 carats of well-matched, bright old-cut diamonds (G–H colour, VS2–SI1 clarity), mounted in platinum on an 18ct yellow gold shank. Sapphire: approx. 3.4mm, 0.26ct Diamonds: 10 old European cuts, approx. 0.25ct total Clarity: VS2–SI1 | Colour: G–H Ring size: UK M / US 6.25 Weight: 2.00 grams Hallmarked “18ct” Excellent antique condition. No replacements or restorations. This ring represents the elegance and craftsmanship of the Edwardian period and is suitable for both collectors and contemporary fine jewellery wearers.
