Description

A characterful Victorian pine farmhouse table with a scrubbed top and original black painted base. The turned legs show wonderful age and texture, with layers of cracked paint giving it that authentic, lived-in charm. The top has a beautifully weathered surface - decades of honest wear from daily use and a pale tone that contrasts perfectly with the dark base. Ideal as a kitchen table, work table, or even a rustic desk with bags of personality. Condition Report Structurally sound with age-related wear throughout, please study photos. The top shows marks, scratches, and patina from years of use. Paint to the base is flaked and distressed, revealing the timber beneath in places. A genuine piece of country furniture with all the right character.
