Description

Pair of Late 19th Century Continental Bronze-Gilt Three-Light Candelabra A striking pair of late 19th-century continental bronze-gilt three-light candelabra. Each candelabrum features branches formed as crossed halberds and shields, held aloft by finely cast knight figures carrying an additional halberd and shield. They stand on outsplayed bases decorated with cabochon details, floral motifs, and elegant scroll feet. These impressive candelabra also come with film-prop provenance, having been used in professional productions — meaning you could well spot them in one of your favourite films or TV series. Their dramatic medieval revival style makes them ideal for stage, screen, or standout interior display.
