Description

I am delighted to offer another great example of a genuine fusee railway clock from the London Midland and Scotland railway, originally dating from the 1890s. This was previously a London & North Western Railway (1846-1922) clock until 1923 when this railway was amalgamated into the L.M.S. as a result of the 1921 Railway Act. There is a mark to the rear of the dial detailing a repair in 1915 (please see photos). The wire-driven fusee eight day movement has rectangular plates with an anchor escapement and has been fully overhauled so benefits from my three year guarantee. The eight inch dial is in lovely condition and has been fully and tastefully restored with 'L.M.S. 11252' applied to it as found on the dial prior to restoration. The clock retains its original hands and the bezel locks securely into a tab. The one piece turned mahogany surround has fantastic colour and patination since its restoration. The circular surround is pegged to the back box in the classic manner with the usual latched side inspection door and lower regulating door and the LMS brass plaque is applied to the right side of the case with new screws in very old holes. This is a super rare and ori...
