Description

These beautifully designed cufflinks feature luminous round mother of pearl, each centred with a square step-cut sapphire that adds a gentle touch of colour. The pearls are framed in platinum, enhancing their iridescence while offering a refined contrast against the warm gold links. Dating to around 1910, this hand-crafted pair epitomises the restrained elegance of the Edwardian period. The double-sided design is joined by strong 18ct yellow gold chain links, allowing the cufflinks to sit comfortably and securely on the cuff. Suitable for both men and women, they have a timeless sophistication that complements any formal ensemble. They come in their original leather-tooled fitted case by Brunfort & Son, a delightful survival and a testament to the quality of the set.
