Description

K0289 Very attractive William IV / early Victorian two door rosewood sideboard of unusually narrow proportions, having carved upstand to the shelf which is supported on turned columns above and oversailing top with stunning rosewood grain above an oak lined frieze drawer and a pair of cupboard doors with brass grill, enclosing removable shelf, all standing on plinth base. Although the lock is not working the door is fitted with a small brass catch and stays shut. We also have two pleated door panels. The cabinet came to us from a private collector, it is in good condition, it has been well looked after over the years.
