Description

Elizabeth Trevor (1844-1954) was born in Ellesmere, Shropshire near Shrewsbury, the daughter of John and Ann Trevor, Innkeepers and toll contractor (gatekeeper). In the 1881 British Census she is described a Landscape Artist, the sister of Edward Trevor who was two years younger and also a Landscape painter. Edward had exhibited a Newlyn picture in 1884, demonstrating his presence in Cornwall sometime around that date. (He died the following year on the Isle of Capri, Italy). She married fellow artist Lester Sutcliffe in 1891 in Wales, who was mentioned by Forbes in a letter as being in Newlyn in 1887. They both painted and exhibited in the Cornwall and Yorkshire areas. "Still Life with Primroses" is a lovely example. An oil painting on canvas laid on board it measures 10" x 14" and is signed lower left. It is framed in the original hand made frame giving an overall size of 19"x 22".
