Description

You are viewing a period Victorian oil painting of a Suffolk landscape. The piece reminds us of works by the artist John Constable and this piece is in that style. The artist has created an idyllic scene of pastoral beauty and timelessness. A man lounges in the left of the frame, to the centre is a cottage and over this presides the church steeple. It reminds us of halcyon days past, simpler times in the English countryside. We date this to circa 1870 and it comes in the gorgeous and original gilt frame. We do not know the name of the artist but it's clearly one of great skill looking at the brushwork intricacy. Offered in great shape ready for home use right away.
