Description

We are offering to you this Stunning Painting . Oil On Canvas. Signed on bottom right of picture. Eugène Joseph Verboeckhoven died on 19 January 1881 in Brussels at the age of 83, one of the most well-respected and prolific artists of his day. He was born in West Flanders, Belgium. Verboeckhoven was an excellent painter of animals and, appears to have been the last link to a secular tradition with its roots deep in the 17th century, which linked observation of nature, studied composition, and idealized reproduction of reality. Like the Old Masters, he obtained the colour blue for his skies by grinding down lapis lazuli. He visited France and Great Britain (1826), Germany (1828) and Italy (1841). As his reputation grew, Verboeckhoven's clients were increasingly international. Collectors in the United States, England, Germany and Russia eagerly sought his work, eventually making him one of the most famous and successful artists of his day. He exhibited in salons throughout Europe and in many private galleries, particularly in London, Paris and St. Petersburg Russia. He was a Member of The Royal Academy of Belgium, of the Commission of Directors of the Roya...
