Description

This is an antique coal scuttle. An English, copper and wrought iron fireside fuel basket in Art Nouveau taste, dating to the late Victorian period, circa 1900. A delightfully decorative example, ideal for complementing the most elegant of fireplaces. Beautifully hooded form offering appealing proportion and decorative interest. Quality copper displays gently patinated amber hues consistent with age. Striking wrought iron handle with a fascinating spiral twist motif. Handle articulates from a pair of distinctive scallop shell mounts. The whole stands upon a tapered circular foot, enhancing stability and presence. Suitable for all fuel types, including coal, kindling and logs. A superb accent piece for fireside storage with period charm and style. A wonderful late Victorian coal scuttle, replete with Art Nouveau overtones and excellent craftsmanship. Delivered ready to display.
