Description

Professionally restored. This is a wonderful opportunity to own a genuine Victorian solid mahogany extending dining table dated to around 1860. Constructed of first class mahogany which has matured over the decades into a deep rich colour with fabulous grain and patina. It has been professionally restored and French polished so the top is in unmarked condition and of course the additional leaves are exactly the same colour. The grain is truly wonderful but what really makes this table stand out are the fabulous legs. To the top there are square panels into which are carved oak leaves and acorns, then wonderful turning with acanthus leaves and then the Tudor rose emblem below. They are then fluted and taper slightly ending in polished brass cups and castors. Although the castors are replacements we ensured they were near identical to those removed due to them being decayed. It has two additional leaves which are of different widths which gives you the options depending on how many people you wish to seat. It measures 46 " x 82 " when fully extended, 46 " x 57 " when fully closed, one leaf measures 14.5 " and the other 10.5 ". It stands 30.25 " high and 24 "...
