Description

Exquisite Edwardian Diamond Solitaire Ring 18ct Gold and Platinum, Circa 1920 This stunning ring is crafted in rich 18-carat yellow gold with platinum detail, and set with a single old brilliant-cut diamond in a beautifully raised crown collet. The platinum illusion setting enhances the stone's brilliance, giving the appearance of a much larger diamond. The shoulders are finely decorated with delicate floral motifs, typical of early 20th-century design. Elegant and full of charm, this ring captures the timeless grace of the Edwardian era — a perfect choice for an engagement ring or a treasured addition to any fine jewellery collection. Details: Old brilliant-cut diamond approx. 4.6mm (estimated 0.40ct, appears closer to 0.65ct due to setting) Colour: H/I • Clarity: VS1 Inside shank marked 18CT Diamond stands 5.8mm proud of the finger Weight: 3 grams Size R (UK), 6¾ (USA) – easily resized Circa 1920 Excellent condition Presented in the fitted box illustrated Our ref: 2284 This romantic Edwardian diamond ring showcases the enduring beauty of antique craftsmanship — refined, elegant, and made to be cherished for generations.
