Description

A good Staffordshire Tobacco Jar featuring a woman drinking tea. It is very beautifully presented with much detail. The woman wears a dress with handprinted flowers and a table beside her bears a teapot and milk jug. It is surprising that these jars were presented as "tobacco jars." However, this piece is crying out to be filled with sweets or biscuits. This piece is from a collection of eight jars. Circa 1900-1910. We can deliver free of charge in UK mainland. Payment by bank transfer, PayPal or card via telephone
