Description

William Kay Blacklock (b1872) studied at the Royal College of Art in London, living in Chelsea then moving to Battersea the following year. In 1902 he moved to Edinburgh, remaining there for four years before, once again, moving south. Blacklock joined a colony of artists in Walberswick, a picturesque village on the East Coast. This colony was founded by Philip William Steer, OM (1860-1942), the leading light of British Impressionism, who lived and worked in Walberswick from 1888 until 1894. Blacklock moved to St. Ives in East Anglia before living finally in Leicester. He was a regular exhibitor at the Royal Academy showing a total of seventeen works. He also exhibited at the Royal Institute of Oil Painters. The present painting "The Orchard in Spring" is a lovely watercolour measuring 15"x 20". It is signed lower right and is framed giving an overall size of 22"x 29".
