Description

A lovely French oak farmhouse table with a drawer, this has a later extension leaf which can be added at one end to provide extra length for family meals, taking the overall length to 3 metres and easily seating 10 people. The sliding leaf at the other end might also be used to seat extra children. It will look wonderful without the additional piece in a country kitchen, with the extension stored away for festive occasions. - Sturdy sectioned drawer in one side. - Pull out leaf at one end for general kitchen work. - Later additional extension piece which can be fitted to the other end for family meals. - Extension bars fit into holes fashioned at one end, with drop down legs on metal hinges. - Tapered square section legs. In good condition showing wear consistent with age and use. There are some signs of historical woodworm in places, as to be expected. The extension piece is a later addition, with a different colour and a more rustic appearance, but can be stored separately until needed. Date: Circa 1850
