Description

Chinese Blue and White Porcelain Bottle Vase Depicting Dragons late 19th or early 20th century. Key Details Type: Porcelain bottle vase. The shape is often associated with the yuhuchunping (pear-shaped) form. Decoration: The body of the vase features hand-painted panels with dragons. The neck is decorated with stylized upright leaves and further decorative bands. Style and Period: The blue and white underglaze technique has been used in Jingdezhen, China's porcelain capital, for centuries. Items of this style, particularly with narrative scenes, are commonly attributed to the late Qing Dynasty (19th century) or the Republic Period. Approximate Dimensions: H: 24 x W: 11 cm
